

Term 1 Week 1 2013

TRANSITION

Welcome to a new year – a new beginning for many. We are focusing on routines and relationships, so the children get to know each other through practical jobs and small group activities. We encourage the older children to assist and support the younger and new children. This has been lovely to observe, as they show pride in this and the children who are being supported are truly feeling supported. It is an effective way to establish safe relationships. Every one appears to have enjoyed the week.

The weather has been pleasant for summer and the children have been very active outside exploring new and old activities and work. Lots of relationships are forming and new friendships developing.

We wish you a fruitful year ☺
