

Term 2 Week 9 2012

TRANSITION

This week we have talked about who lives in the water and who lives on land. Here Amelia is placing the fish on the blue felt, which represent the water and the native animals on the green, representing the land.

On Fridays the focus have been on caring for the inside environment. Charli is holding the chair safely as she stacks them, while we say "4...and no more". This encourages the children to count and take pride in their awareness of knowing.

On Thursday we made more paper craft. The indirect aim is to use and develop fine motor skills to prepare for writing. Josh made a picture of yellow and red tissue paper which was finely scrunched and glued on in the way he desired.

Lisa (Isobel's Mum) offered to come and play the guitar for the children. She had prepared songs we have been singing together. They got a chance to play a tune carefully at the end of the session. Thank you, Lisa.

After the rain pour on Friday, we discovered a stream of rain coming down from the shade. We got a bucket and saw it gather lots of
